

Q3 What do you think is the most important direction for research to take?

What owners think is the most important direction for research to take.

		Gut biome testing longitudinal study genetic predisposition routine change
2	Owner	interview bereaved owners owners experience longitudinal study Talk owners Cost post-mortem Cost testing
3	environment	Soil samples cases field link between horse environment soil/ water samples thorough environment investigation link field testing quickly check ground cross reference weather ground disturbance longitudinal study Soil testing kits causal factors mutations avian disease bird droppings guano spread not spread
4	treatment	treatment drug development find cure finding a cure develop effective vaccine cure treatment drug vaccine development
5	prevention	preventative tips prevention manage risk worming gut balancers mycotoxin binders protective tests botulinum C antibody evasive action management manage risk worming
6	cause	find cause finding causes establish root cause find linked cause. narrow down likely cause(s) key element missing piece puzzle Identifying causal agents Identify commonalities collect analyse data common themes

7	toxin	Mycotoxin research not just bacteria mycotoxins bacterial fungal viral link contact potential toxins young age
---	-------	---	--